

It makes sense to have a Cohabitation Agreement.

You have picked the perfect home, you are ready to take the plunge and move in together but have you discussed how you will manage your finances when you do?

As the UK sees an upward trend towards cohabiting as a couple or family, clients are now looking for financial stability and long term security. It can be the elephant in the room but dealing with the 'what ifs' now can actually reduce the number of arguments experienced in the home about finances.

What is a Cohabitation Agreement?

This is a tailored document that records how you wish to live together and in the unlikely event of separation, define how your assets would be divided.

Why do we need one and what will it include?

One of you may have made a larger contribution to the purchase price, but it is understood that the other will make alternative contributions. This could be by way of contributing to regular outgoings, investment in the contents of the home or paying any debts off. Sitting down and putting together a bespoke agreement can ensure you get off on the right foot in your new home.

How much does it cost?

A Cohabitation Agreement is tailored to your individual needs and therefore we do not quote a fixed fee until after your FREE 30 minute consultation.
